FIRST SUNDAY OF LENT

YEAR A | FEBRUARY 26, 2023

The portion of the story of Creation that we hear in today's first reading offers a primordial account of sin, one that explains to God's people Israel just how their predicament came to be. As a testimony against the foreign gods of Babylon that sent them into captivity, Israel understands itself in humility instead of arrogance. Adam and Eve are separate from the knowledge of good and evil, which up to this point is tended and cared for by God alone. By contrast, the gods of Babylon create humankind out of the broken pieces of other slain gods, and the heroic human Gilgamesh triumphs over both hell and heaven. To me, this is a necessary reminder that chaos is sometimes more apparent than goodness, and that the ways that we pursue order and completion often go against what God has already planted in our most intrinsic being. Rather than struggling against the gods and forces of heaven, Adam and Eve must choose whether or not to trust God's provision for them. In the language of story and deep oral tradition, Israel understands itself as suffering the consequences of self-sufficiency.

As we enter this Lenten season together, perhaps we may ask God how we can depend more on him in specific ways. For many of us, this will dovetail with a practice of fasting or other penance. For some of us, we will embrace a positive action each day to bring us more in line with the good that God shows us. One friend gives us coffee; another goes to the gym every day. St. Paul tells us that we, who are all in the same boat when it comes to our inability to save ourselves, are liberated by the actions of one person, Jesus. The letter to Romans helps us think about the difficult question of how Christ is both human and divine, and how important it is that He is both! The very human sin of Adam is more than made up by the very human obedience and sufferings of Jesus. We are invited to relate to Jesus as both our human brother and our divine savior who conquers the consequences of the deep past and painful present that lingers around all of us.

"We are invited to relate to Jesus as both our human brother and our divine savior who conquers the consequences of the deep past and painful present that lingers around all of us."

Before the ashes are washed from our faces on Wednesday, many of us were probably frustrated by a particular situation at work, something we see on the news, or maybe a conversation with a family member. Some of us carry deep grief and struggle to find the crack of light that we had hoped for in this season. We felt the burden of our inability to fix everything. Our flesh bears many such burdens, but we need not bear those alone. Our Lenten practice helps us to turn away from the things that trip us up and focus on the mystery of love that is being nurtured into new life each day in Christ. As Pope St. Gregory the Great says, "be not anxious about what you have, but about what you are."

Karl A. Gurney, M.A. | Director of Liturgy

FR. BYRON MACIAS, CMF

It puzzles me that the Devil is able to use something as sacred as Scripture to tempt Jesus himself! This certainly paints a full picture of the Evil One: if he is able to tempt the Son of God, imagine what he would do to us!

Indeed, it seems that we live with the temptations (and not the music group), but with the constant threat that the Devil will do anything to tempt us. He would even use good things to tempt us.

And it all comes down to this: the Devil can and will tempt us all He wants, but he could never make us! That's what Jesus is teaching us this weekend. Freedom is the most beautiful gift God has given us; and God stands by that gift. Jesus, as a human man, was in the desert for 40 days, hungry, cold and lonely: such a state of vulnerability. Still, the Devil could not make him fall. If even God respects our freedom, such a limited being as the Devil could never (and will never) get in there!!!

HIKE WITH MARY

We will meet at the church parking on Saturday, March 4 at 8:00am to travel to our hiking destination northwest of Auberry. Come and pray the Rosary and celebrate Mass in God's creation with us. This month's hike is suitable for the new hikers and experienced ones.

Sign up with Ryan or Jessica Borunda at: borunda.ryan@gmail.com or with me: frbyron@csufnewman.com

Also, unlike other trails, this trail has a parking fee but Jessica and Ryan are going to help out anyone who would like to go but isn't financially able to put in the money.

See you Saturday!

PRAYER FOR OUR CAMPUS MINISTRIES

I want to thank our Edgar, Karl and Karina, who went to all college campuses in the city to celebrate Ash Wednesday with students, faculty and staff.

I also want to thank our own volunteers who offered prayer services and Distribution of Ashes all day long here at the parish. I think we had over a thousand people coming. Thanks to all who helped ministering to the people and making them feel at home, especially our amazing doorkeepers, Jane and Steve Toon!

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS BURRITOS THIS WEEKEND!

Please support our Knights of Columbus in their next Breakfast Burrito this weekend after all morning Masses.

GOODBYE

Last week will be my last weekend before I depart for my mini-sabbatical program. I will leave on March 8 and (hopefully) will return by June 10, 2023. I will be at the door after all Masses tomorrow and I would love to see you before I leave.

I will miss you. You have shaped my priesthood and I am going to this program because I want to do a better job for each one of you.

Please keep me in your prayers and feel free to drop me an email: frbyron@csufnewman.com I will also do my best to post my weekly Homilies for Busy People in my YouTube channel: Fr. Byron Macias, CMF.

HERMIT

Mary Fotheringham, whom many of you will recognize as a lector and member of the RCIA Team has been discerning a call to the eremitic life for several years. We hope that you will join us for a special Mass at the Newman Center, where Mary will be consecrated as a diocesan hermit by Bishop Joseph Brennan.

Although this Thursday's event has been postponed due to Bishop Brennan having to travel out of town, please check the calendar and bulletin for the new day and time for this special Mass of Consecration.

Everyone is invited to please come and join Mary as she perpetually vows to become a hermit!

SAINTLY QUOTE

"Anxiety is the greatest evil that can befall a soul, except sin. God commands you to pray, but He forbids you to worry" –St. Francis de Sales

HAVE A LAUGH

The pastor always used the phrase, "It might be worse," when some calamity would come his way. One day a friend said to him, "I've something to tell you, and you won't be able to use your favorite phrase. I dreamt last night that I died and went to hell." "It might be worse," said the preacher. The friend came unglued: "man alive, how could it be worse?" to which the pastor replied: "it might be true."
