DID YOU KNOW?

Continuing our look at Pope Leo XIV's explanation of the "non-negotiable ... doctrine" of Catholic Social Teaching in his newly-released first encyclical Magnifica Humanitas, we see that new technologies must be governed justly, so that all people have access to their benefits and protection from dangers:

"67. Today, among the goods that are universally intended for everyone, we must also include new forms of property, such as patents, algorithms, digital platforms, technological infrastructure and data. In a context where the wealth of nations depends increasingly on knowledge and technology, when these goods remain concentrated in the hands of a few, without adequate forms of sharing and access, a new imbalance is created that contradicts the universal destination of goods. In turn, it widens the gap between the included and the excluded, between those who can participate in the digital revolution and those who remain on the margins. Furthermore, care for our common home and our responsibility toward the poor and future generations require that the use of the goods of creation and the new possibilities offered by technology be regulated in such a way as to respect the environment, avoid waste and prevent new forms of exploitation....

80. In this day and age, social justice must also grapple with the environment shaped by digital technologies. The spread of global networks, platforms and artificial intelligence systems is changing the way we obtain information, communicate and access services. Justice demands that we prevent the emergence of new forms of exclusion and deprivation of freedoms: individuals and peoples hindered or denied access to basic technologies, communities exposed to invasive surveillance and social groups penalized by opaque algorithms that perpetuate prejudice and discrimination. In the digital age, a just social order guarantees everyone equal access to opportunities, protects the youngest and weakest members of society, combats hate and misinformation and subjects the use of data and technology to public oversight, so that the guiding principle is not solely profit but the dignity of every person and the common good of all people." —Pope Leo XIV, Magnifica Humanitas (emphasis added)

June News

"For God has not given us a spirit of fear, but of power and of love and of a sound mind."

— 2 Timothy 1:7

June is Alzheimer's & Brain Awareness Month, a time to recognize the importance of brain health and support those affected by Alzheimer's disease and other forms of dementia. While changes in memory can sometimes be a normal part of aging, ongoing memory loss, confusion, or difficulty completing familiar tasks should not be ignored. Raising awareness and encouraging early conversations can help individuals and families access support, resources, and care sooner.

Healthy Living Tips:

- Keep your mind active: Reading, puzzles, learning new skills, and engaging in meaningful conversations can help support brain health.
- Stay physically active: Regular exercise improves blood flow to the brain and may help reduce the risk of cognitive decline.
- Eat a balanced diet: Foods rich in fruits, vegetables, whole grains, lean proteins, and healthy fats support both brain and heart health.
- Prioritize quality sleep: Consistent, restful sleep plays an important role in memory, focus, and overall cognitive function.
- Stay socially connected: Spending time with family, friends, and community groups can help reduce isolation and support emotional well-being.
- Know the warning signs: Frequent memory loss, confusion, difficulty completing familiar tasks, or changes in mood and behavior should be discussed with a healthcare provider.
- Support Caregivers: Caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's or dementia can be emotionally and physically demanding, making self-care and support essential for caregivers as well.
